FRANKFORT, JANUARY 19, 1884.

The Legislature is now in session, and it the people of this city expect anything at all of their Representative and Senator it is that they make an effort to secure an appropriation for the completion of the Capitol building. We don't think the journal of the last Senate will show that the gentleman who represents this district in that body either originated or advocated the passage of any measure of very great importance to this people, while our Representative was suddenly awakened to a sense of his duty to his constituents near the heel of the session by a strong effort being made to remove the seat of government. He then labored manfully to get an appropriation but the time was too short and his bill was cut off by the final adjournment. This session he seems inclined to look more to the interests of his party than to those of his constituents, as an evidence of which on Monday night, in the Democratic caucus, he took occasion to pour out his wrath against the Republicans "without probable cause." In view of the fact that there are some fifteen members of this Legislature who are of that political complexion, whose votes will go a great way towards making up the 51 in the House and 20 in the Senate necessary to pass any bill he may introduce making an appropriation for the capitol, no matter if the sum is only $100, we think he could have advanced the interests of his candidate just as much by keeping quiet. We are very sure the prospects of his bill passing would have been much brighter.

Again, in his zeal for one of the candidates for Senatorial honors he seems to have lost sight of the fact that the other candidates have friends whose votes will also be very necessary to carry his measure. While this course may advance his own interests politically, those of his constituents are suffering thereby, and if we are not mistaken he was elected to look after the latter.

In our humble opinion, if anything is to be done towards securing the completion of the capitol building this session no time must be lost, but steps must be taken at once, and the ball must be kept rolling until an appropriation is secured. If our Senator and Representative are powerless to secure the passage of the bill let our influential citizens take hold and help them, and not stand back for fear of some one else running away with all the glory. Let's make a strong effort to have this question settled for all time to come.

The State Auditor has instructed the Attorney General to bring suit against the bondsmen of Capt. Ralph Sheldon, late Register of the Land Office, for $1,335.75, the amount he is short in his accounts for the last year of his term.

The remains of Judge W. J. Steele, for a number of years County Judge of Woodford, were brought to this city Sunday afternoon and interred in the Cemetery. His son Frank, who is now serving a term in the Penitentiary for murder, was allowed to go under guard to his home on Saturday to take a last look at his father.

About six o'clock Wednesday morning one of the fires in Mr. D. L. Hall's residence took fire, and the burning spot dropped down into a fireplace in the cellar. The fireplace having been unused for years, was filled up with coal, which took fire and the flames spread rapidly to a large lot of coal stored there. When discovered the fire had gained considerable headway, but a message was sent to the engine house and one of the engines was taken out quickly, without ringing the bell, and the flames were soon extinguished.

The raffle to decide who should have the presents given by Mr. Phil. Seibert to his customers came off at his store Thursday evening of last week and resulted in Dr. James M. Johnson, of Lawrenceburg, winning the first prize, a morocco case containing 36 pieces of silver, while Dr. Sam. E. James, of this city, and Miss Clara Williams, of this county, tied on 46 for the second, a gilt French clock, and Mr. D. C. Barrett and Mrs. A. G. Alstrom, of this city, and Mr. B. A. Wash, of Alto, tied on 18 for the lowest prize, a silver casket. The ties were thrown off the first of the week when Miss Clara Williams won the clock and Mr. B. A. Wash the casket.

There is now a dead lock in the Democratic caucus which has lasted for a week, and prevents the Legislature from electing a United States Senator. As this costs the State about $1,500 a day the people are getting tired of it and want the Representatives to go to work. Let the headquarters be closed at once, the whisky and cigars shut off and the hindmost man will so on be dropped and an election reached.

The committee appointed by the citizens meeting to look after the suffering poor have distributed coal and provisions to forty families so far. If any of our citizens have cast off clothing and shoes which they are willing to give to the needy poor they should leave them with Mr. C. Shubinski, who will distribute them to several families who are suffering for want of clothing sufficient to protect them from the cold.

The crowd at the State House Monday night to witness the proceedings of the Democratic caucus held to nominate a candidate for United States Senator was immense. The gallery and lobbies were so closely packed with persons standing up that it was almost impossible for any one to get out after he had gotten in. Mr. W. H. Gray was so overcome by the heat in the lobby and the squeeze he got that he had to be taken home by a friend.

The ice on the river, which had frozen to the thickness of three or four inches, broke up on Sunday and Monday and all ran out Monday night without doing much damage. Messrs. Told had two empty coal barges carried off and the cribbing at the Lock was so gorged that the Freese has not been able to get below that point.

LATER.—The barges are in an ice gorge at the mouth of Elkhorn, the river still being blocked below Polegrove Landing. An effort was made to land the wharf boat as it went by the residence of Mr. Carr, below the mouth of Elkhorn, several weeks ago, by Messrs. Campbell Carr, Jas. A. Harrod, and S. Walter, but it was too full of water to handle well and they had to abandon it. They saved all the books and papers in it and some of the office furniture.

For the benefit of the Minorville correspondent of the Georgetown Times we will say, that the overcoat worn by the workman from this city who went to that place last fall to do a job of work, and it is claimed carried the small-pox with him, was borrowed from a young man who is also employed at the Capital Machine Works, and it had never been out of this city before. The young man who owns the coat has never had the small-pox nor any of his family, to our certain knowledge as we have lived in the same section of the city with him for the past ten years. Now if there is any other way in which the people in that unfortunate locality can imagine the disease could have been carried to them by the workman in question let's hear from them, and we will try and convince them they are mistaken.

Belle Point.

Mr. Chas. Sullivan's little child has been quite sick this week.

Mr. Jno. W. Cox has returned home from a visit to Indianapolis.

Mr. Milton Stevenson visited friends in Mercer county last week.

Mr. J. W. Walker returned Wednesday from a visit to his parents in Maine.

NOTICE.

HAVING BOUGHT OF MR. P. NEWMAN HIS entire stock of millinery goods, I will still continue the same business at the old stand formerly occupied by Mrs. C. E. Ward. Thanking the public for past favors, I earnestly solicit a continuance of the same.

MRS. MAGGIE J. HALLMAN.
FRANKFORT, January 4, 1884.

Having sold my entire stock of millinery goods to Mrs. Maggie J. Hallman, I hereby notify all parties who are indebted to me to please call and settle promptly, as I am compelled to have money. All persons who have claims against me will please present them for payment. In retiring from the business, I take this opportunity to thank the public for the generous patronage which they have given me, and hope they will continue the same under the new management.

R. P. BRYAN, Agent.

We are under obligations to Col. R. W. Scott for recent Florida papers.

Capt. S. V. Pence negotiating with the Mail Line Company for the purchase of the steamer Hornet.

Mr. W. H. Posey has removed his law office across the street to the room in the rear of the office Messrs. Hord & Traub.

Don't forget to purchase a ticket for Hon. George R. Wendling's lecture Monday night for he is one of the finest orators in America.

The City Clerk's office and the Council Chambers have been fitted up in the new City Hall and are now occupied by the city officials.

The new sunlight chandelier which has just been put up in the Presbyterian Church illuminates the whole building so beautifully that no other lights are needed.

On Wednesday night the City Council elected Mr. Wm. H. Williams policeman to fill the vacancy on the force occasioned by the resignation of Mr. L. L. Conway.

The Council have notified the contractors Messrs. Bennett & King, to remove the furnaces placed in the Opera House by them, as they have failed to come up to the contract.

While hauling fodder to his stock, on his farm near the city, one day last week, Mr. A. W. Cromwell slipped and fell from the wagon to the ground injuring his left arm very badly.

Mrs. Oscar Clow, of Henderson, nee Miss Emma Pilkington of this county, daughter of Mrs. Capt. Sam. Steele, died suddenly of heart disease, at her home in Henderson, on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Ed. Grant, fireman of the steam fire engine, in attempting to slide down the pole at the engine house Wednesday morning to go to the fire at Mr. D. L. Haly's, fell to the floor below and was bruised badly.

A prominent gentleman in this city, who has heard Hon. Geo. R. Wendling lecture, pronounces him one of the finest orators upon the American platform, and urges every one to go and hear him Monday night.

The Tit for Tat Club, a leap year organization of the young ladies of this city, met at Col. R. P. Pepper's on Tuesday night and spent a very pleasant evening. They met again on Monday evening at Gen. John Rodman's.

Mr. Ben. G. Williams was riding rapidly down Ann street Tuesday afternoon, and when near the Market-house the horse he was riding slipped on the ice and snow, which covered the street, and fell, catching Mr. Williams' legs under him and mauling it very badly.

Mr. Stephen Black having purchased the interest of Mr. W. J. Chinn in the coal business, has resumed the business at his old stand, on the corner of Broadway and Wilkinson streets, where he will be glad to see all his old friends, and will keep constantly on hand a large stock of all the best grades of coal.

We have just received a letter from our young friend, Mr. Geo. G. Graham, who is now making his home at Pequeira, Sonora, Mexico, written in Spanish, showing that he has completely mastered the language during the year of his residence there. Although he sends his love to the girls at home we should not be surprised ere long to hear of his claiming one of the dark eyed senoritas of that sunny clime as his bride.

FOR RENT.—Two office rooms on the lower floor. Apply to Judge Duvall.

Coasting down the Arsenal Hill from the Cemetery gate to the Capital Hotel has been a favorite amusement with ladies and gentlemen as well as the boys this week.

The young man who is the possessor of a good horse and a nice sleigh certainly has been in clover the last two weeks, for the roads have been in good condition for sleighing nearly every day during that time.

Chief of the Fire Department, Mr. A. H. McClure, has appointed Mr. B. B. Jeffers as Assistant Chief. No better selection could have been made as there are few better workers at a fire in the city. All the old runners of the department have been reappointed for the year.

The repairs on the large audience room of the Presbyterian Church having been completed and it will be occupied to-morrow for morning and evening services. All are cordially invited to attend. The services will be conducted by Rev. J. McC. Blaney, D. D.

Notice.

Those of my customers who still hold my tickets for bread I desire to say, that if they will bring them to Mr. Geo. Salender's grocery, where I can be found at all times, I will redeem them in full.

All those knowing themselves indebted to me will please come forward and settle.

S. FUCHS.

Hon. Geo. R. Wendling will lecture in the Opera House, on Monday night, January 21st, subject, "Satan." Having heard this lecture, we most earnestly commend it to the people of Frankfort. There is nothing sensational about it. It is full of thought. Its tone is pure and healthy, and the manner of its delivery places the lecturer in the front rank of orators. No one can listen attentively to it without receiving both pleasure and profit.

BEN. S. ROBBINS,
E. A. PENICK,
FAYETTE HEWITT,
VIRGIL HEWITT,
JAMES W. TATE.

Harry Webber and company played "Nip and Tuck" to fair business at the Grand Opera House last night. The play itself is well known as an ingenious farce, in which the abilities of the principals of the cast are displayed in absurd and laughable situations where are themselves, veritable studies from Dickens. Harry Webber as "Nip" and Negrotto as "Tuck" tickled the audience immensely, and in some one of their various peculiar disguises were always on the stage to provoke laughter. Little Carrie Webber is an exceedingly precious child, actress and her personation of Lucy Beaumont, a little miss of seven years, was very clever indeed. The absence of Mrs. Webber at the bedside of her mother, who is dangerously ill, caused a derangement of the cast that weakened it very materially. —Springfield (O.) Democrat.

This troupe will appear at the Opera House on Tuesday evening, January 22.

Bridgeport.

Mr. Wm. Scofield, who has been quite ill is convalescent.

Mrs. Rosa Jenkins says J. W. J. has the boss patent gate.

Mr. W. H. Hawkins and wife have each been on the sick list during the past week.

The way a lady in this vicinity breaks setting leaps—five under one kettle five days—air excluded. No more setting.

Mr. L. S. Roberts has removed from his late residence, near South Benson, to a house on the old Walter Stephens place.

Mr. — Bliss and bride, of Lexington, who were the guests of Mrs. Wm. Armstrong and family during the past week, have returned home.

A lady in this section says she is anxious for the Legislature to pass a bill providing for the return of discharged convicts to the place from whence they came.

The fall session of the Bridgeport school will close next week. The spring session will commence about the first of March. Due notice will, however, be given of the exact time.

We understand a bill has been introduced in the Legislature to reduce the number of school trustees. While we are ready to admit one will do the work just as well as three, or even a dozen, yet this revision will not materially enhance the cause of education. What we want is a law looking to the pecuniary interest of the school system. One that will insure better pay for the teacher and a greater number of months taught in the year.

It is proposed by those interested to have an oyster supper at no distant day for the benefit of education in this vicinity. The money accruing from this source to be used especially for the building of a school-house in our town. All favorable to so laudable an undertaking are earnestly requested to be present and assist us. By so doing a degree of enjoyment will be vouchsafed to all present that will amply repay to the most scrupulous.

Get one of Wood's patent carpet strips for your outside door. They keep out water and will not rot. For sale by Whiteside & McEwan.

Don't make the mistake of doctoring liver and kidneys to cure consumption. If you will lay all other remedies aside and put your trust in Dr. Wiener's Balsam of Wild Cherry, it will surely benefit you. Try it for coughs and colds, and see what an excellent remedy it is.

Buy a truse from Joe LeCompte.

First class board wanted by a quiet gentleman and wife, in a private family of refinement and where there are no boarders. Location central, best references. Address "A," care of this office.

BOARDING.—A few boarders by the day week or month. Wanted by Mrs. R. B. McKee, at LeCompte house, near Iron Bridge.

No one can be ill if the blood is pure. Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla root have long been recognized by physicians as blood purifiers. Don't be humbugged by the advertisements of the many quick bitters but occasionally use Dr. J. C. Williams' Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, and you will live to a good old age, free from all distress of mind and body. Many of our best citizens, who long suffered from bad blood indicated by weak kidneys, indigestion, sores, eczema, etc., owe their recovery to the use of this remedy.

Choice Leaf Lard at C. W. Fincel's. Satisfaction guaranteed.

1000 Large corn fed hogs wanted at C. W. Fincel's, Frankfort Ky.

C. W. Fincel pays the highest price for hogs.

The people of Frankfort should patronize the new wholesale and retail coal firm of S. & J. H. Todd, for they have come to stay. Office at H. R. Williams' grocery, South-side, where Mr. Peter E. Todd can always be found ready to wait on customers.

Many who long suffered from indescribable feelings of distress, lame back, aching joints, sores, swellings, weakness of the urinary and digestive organs, unnatural feelings of weariness, headache, nervousness, despondency, sleeplessness, disturbing dreams, partial insanity, etc., after doctoring liver, kidneys, nerves and brain, with the various quack nostrums of the day, and being nearly frightened to death by their alarming advertisements, have begun using Dr. Garrett's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, and were agreeably surprised to quickly find themselves restored to perfect health. No other remedy equals it.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Between the Bridges.

What a comical noise sheep bells make on a leigh horse.

Miss Sallie Sharp called on Misses Lelia and Hattie Tinsley, Sunday morning.

Owen Tinsley's favorite dog, Harry, aged twelve years, froze to death Thursday the 10th.

We are happy to say that Mrs. T. B. Johnson has entirely recovered from her illness.

We have a new blacksmith in our town by the name of Lacy, who will work with Mr. Jas. Rankin, sr.

The cold weather Sunday evening did not prevent the Alton boys from making their usual visit to this neighborhood.

Mr. Charley Rice, of Boone county, who has been visiting friends in the neighborhood for several days, returned home last Monday.

Willie Rankin says he put his old sheep in the corncrib and kept her there two days, and the result is she has walked very nimble since. What is good for her?

Messrs. John Jenkins and Eddie Blythe left last Tuesday for Louisville, the former to purchase material for his blacksmith shop, and the latter to get a position as drummer for a Dry-goods house.

The weather was so severe last Friday evening that our young ladies declined to attend the hop at Alton, but two of our boys forced the storm and put in an appearance, and report that it was just splendid.

The good work has already commenced. John's girl called on him Friday evening and stayed until Sunday and John's mind became so frustrated that he lost sight of his calves and it took three men all day Sunday to find them.

Boss, you should not venture out this cold weather without car muffs on. Look at that black cat, Charley Julian and G. Carter have in consequence of their not shielding those important members from the bleak north winds.

If all common school teachers were like those we have seen just under the tutorship of Col. R. D. Allen, we would certainly agree with him that they are a nuisance but he must remember that they are not all brought up under his direct guardianship, and modeled and fashioned after his own bent; consequently there are many common school teachers who are notwithstanding their reduced wages, are doing perhaps as much good as the Hon. Colonel.

PENCH AND JUDY.

Mrs. Dr. Horine visited Mrs. R. M. Wiggs last Monday.

Mr. Richard Carter and niece left Tuesday for their home in Alabama.

Miss Laura Wiggs was the guest of Miss Sallie Sharp one day last week.

Misses Lela and Hattie Tinsley spent the day with Miss Sallie Sharp last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crutcher, of Greafenburg made a lying visit to Woodford county last week.

Hardinsville is just booming. Had a show Monday and Tuesday night with quite a large attendance.

Messrs. Thos. Collins and George Rayan, Alton, passed through our town Wednesday, and stopped long enough to have a chat with some young ladies.

Dr. J. R. Johnson, formerly a citizen of this place, but now traveling for the Sayers & Scoville Buggy Co., of Cincinnati, has been in our midst for three or four days. The Doctor looks well and hearty and talks a great deal about some beautiful young lady near Danville, Ky.

After about two months stay in our midst J. J. Smith, the photographer, left Monday morning for his father's home, and took with him the hearts of some half dozen of our most beautiful young ladies. Mr. Smith is truly a ladies man, and proved himself to be an upright and honorable gentleman while here, and we regret very much that he has left us, but feel hopeful he will pay our town an occasional visit.

Cold weather never stops Spire Tinsley. He made his winding up trip to Bullitt county last week, and collected all the money for which he sold the T. B. Johnson farm. He says he came near freezing to death while gone, but had money enough to keep the inner man warm. Poor fellow, he left his country farms and desiring to sell them would not give the "Spire" a call. He is indeed a good real estate agent. Wouldn't he make a good County Judge?

We are sorry to see the race between the candidates for sheriffing warm this early in the season, and we carefully admit that both of the candidates, John W. Gaines and W. L. Collins, have made good and efficient sheriffs. We think that Mr. Collins ought to have it for next time. And we further ask the privilege to suggest that Col. S. L. M. Major be elected Public Printer for the next term of office.

We clip the following letter from the Daily Press and Knickerbocker, published at Albany, New York.

FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY.

Description of the Capital of the Most Noted States in the Union—Its Streets, Squares, Buildings and Institutions.

FRANKFORT, KY., Jan. 5.
Correspondence of the Press and Knickerbocker.
Frankfort, the Capital of Kentucky, is situated upon the Kentucky river and numbers a population of about 6,000, whose occupations are principally with saw and planing mills, machine shops and distilleries, while law and medicine are well represented, as well as religion. Its principal business streets are Broadway, Main and St. Clair; the numerous stores and houses are numerous.

The corporation possesses two steam fire engines, hooks and ladders and has an efficient police force in a city half completed, in which is a pretty, little opera house, and a fine, large brick school house, with play grounds of ample proportions, delightfully situated upon the south bank of the river, in which about 500 pupils receive instruction from an able principal and ten teachers; the children by their neat appearance and happy faces giving assurance of the success of the school. There are also numerous select schools, among them a large one under the care of R. C. nuns.

The hotels, the "Capital" and "Bohr's" are calculated to satisfy the most fastidious guests. And here let the traveler make a note, fall not at Lexington, Ky., to eat a meal at the "Phoenix Hotel," the R. R. restaurant.

The traveler's impressions in approaching Frankfort are most pleasing, and he is reminded in passing along Broadway on the L. C. & L. R. R., one of the oldest in the union, of some quaint old European or French Canadian town. From the car window may be seen the state house and grounds, a square of some ten acres, a park of trees between the street and buildings, the whole enclosed by a low railing, six feet high, of a forbidding aspect. A broad, brick sidewalk is laid outside of this railing, from which one removes the snow, while for cleanliness it depends upon Presidential rain, in the centre of the park being a large urn to receive the waters from a fountain. Almost in front of the main gate, in the middle of the Broadway sidewalk, stands a primitive order of pump, whose long handle, and the traveler's foot to the stomach of an individual who in darkness may stray into its path.

Situated in the middle of the square is an edifice, the capital, apparently about 50 feet high, with a hexastyle portico of Ionic order in front, approached by stone steps, the front wall pierced for one door only; the flanks and rear walls are plain, the windows showing the building to be in two stories. The roof is surmounted with a cupola, questionable in proportions and in design. To one ignorant of its purpose, the front of this edifice would impress him as its being a manufactory, from its incredible resemblance to that of the Temple of Theseus, erected about 800 B. C., to receive the ashes of the national hero when removed from Scyros to Athens. Possibly, in the building first mentioned, may be seen the "constitution of Kentucky," made in and for slavery times, which Kentuckians are puzzled over just now, as they are informed that it can't (this is the favorite word) be changed. The roof of the portico supports a flag staff, which, since the last inst. has, in a unique mode, informed the spectator that the Senate and House of Representatives of the grand old Commonwealth are in session. The flag, half yards, near the truck, is the remnant of the blue ground and white stars of a flag, old, soiled and in shreds; just below this is a streamer of dirty staining of stripes in red and one white stripe, and below this is another strip of flag, the color undistinguishable the whole lot of rags only for a junk shop. And all this is supposed to be the stars and stripes under the breeze with the above mentioned intent.

West of the capital is a low, two story, flat-roofed brick building about 10x60 feet first floor almost level with ground line, this brick walls of nonscript color, having been painted at a very remote period of time and making an unpicturesque contrast to the bright green blinds. This building is used by some State department, although the depressing appearance would lead one to suppose it was an almshouse or pest house.

East of the capital is the section of a new three story building, whose east north and south facades are of brick, erected in Italian style of arch texture, the west wall of brick. This is occupied by the Court of Appeals, geological and other State offices, is much higher than the capital, while the latter is lower than the State House, and the latter is the State Arsenal. Under this is the tunnel, through which runs the L. C. & L. R. R., and along the north bank of the Kentucky River.

About one quarter of a mile east of the arsenal is the cemetery, a lovely spot on a plateau nearly 200 feet above the river's waters and from which the north, south and west cardinal points of scenery may be viewed. In it, on Xmas day, the grass was quite green, while the lily and its berries were to be seen here and there. Many appropriate and handsome monuments were erected, but to the stranger, Daniel Boone's and the military one erected by the State to Kentucky's sons who participated in the Indian and Mexican wars, prove the most interesting. Some vandals have marred the former by chipping off pieces of the sculptor's art to carry away as mementoes.

North and east of the cemetery stands a handsome, substantial, large in proportion brick building, wherein are kept unfortunates of the State, the "home for weak minded children," an honor to the State, its magnificence reflecting credit upon Dr. J. Q. Stewart, the superintendent.

Frankfort's population in addition to its own press, the Daily Yeoman (D.) and Weekly Roundabout (R.) depend upon the Cincinnati Enquirer and the Commercial Gazette and the Louisville Courier-Journal for the news of the day.

The State Penitentiary occupies a square, surrounded by a high stone wall, three blocks from the Capitol. Some convicts, trusts as they are termed, may be seen daily in the streets, in their striped suits, driving drays going upon mecessaries, etc. Several of them are sons, gentlemen, etc. convicts, their good studs, jewelry, etc., are in striking contrast to their garb and to the inferior order of convicts. The color line is strictly observed by the notice of some who may be ignorant of the capital of a state whose sons and daughters have brought Kentucky prominently before the world—and who heretofore have associated it with horses and bluegrass. There is no bluegrass, there is no bluegrass—it is a lovely green that grows instead, and as to horses, those to be seen in any city, town, or village in New York will more than compare favorably with the horses in any part of Kentucky.

In conclusion, I may mention that upon the north bank of the river, near the bridge connecting N. & S. Frankfort, the government is erecting a U. S. & P. O. of Bowling Green, Public limestone, Queen Ann style in design, 95x58 feet, upon ground and 60 feet in height, which promises to be an ornament to the city.

Frankfort boasts of three banks, gas company and water works, streets and alleys well macadamized and good pavements and a street superintendent (Brewner) who is the right man in the right place.
